

CLIPBOARD NOTES: TYPES OF THINKING ABOUT UNDERSTANDING CHARACTERS

As you spend time looking at students' reading notebook entries and listening to their conversations, see if you can identify the type of thinking they are doing. You can use a chart like this one or create your own. Take a few days to sit with individual students to find out what type of thinking they are doing. Remember—it could be more than one type.

WHAT THE READER SAID/WROTE	WHAT I NOTICE	TYPE OF THINKING
Name: Date:		<input type="checkbox"/> Right-Now Thinking
		<input type="checkbox"/> Over-Time Thinking
		<input type="checkbox"/> Refining Thinking